Wakefield's Last Stand (Study Guide)

11th-13th OCTOBER

Round 1: Legal Policymaking

In this esteemed round, the participants are tasked with the crucial responsibility of crafting legislative measures to address the pressing issue of deepfakes and their potential encroachment upon individuals' personal privacy. They may choose to focus their efforts on either a national level, specifically for Pakistan, or adopt a comprehensive global approach. To showcase their proposed solutions, candidates must deliver a compelling 5-8 minute presentation, utilizing any medium that best highlights their ideas and vision. 4 teams will qualify for round 2.

Round 2: Collaborative Crisis Management

In an intellectually stimulating round, the four distinguished teams will be strategically paired, with each duo consisting of two teams. They will be confronted with an urgent, unforeseen crisis scenario, and their task will be to synergistically devise innovative solutions within a timeframe of 40 minutes. The teams must demonstrate exceptional collaboration and policy-making prowess, ensuring that their proposed strategies cater to the needs of all parties involved. The pair that presents the most viable and advantageous solutions will earn their place in the prestigious final round.

Round 3: Mock Trial

Case: TBD after consultation with an external judge.

In the grand finale, the two triumphant teams shall engage in an exhilarating intellectual duel, emulating a riveting courtroom drama. Each team, meticulously assuming the roles of prosecution and defense, will passionately advocate their respective positions. They shall skillfully cross-examine witnesses, present compelling arguments, and employ strategic maneuvers, all while adhering to the rules and decorum of a genuine legal proceeding. The team that masterfully weaves a persuasive narrative and skillfully dissects the intricacies of the case shall emerge victorious, demonstrating their unparalleled legal acumen and commanding the admiration of all present.
